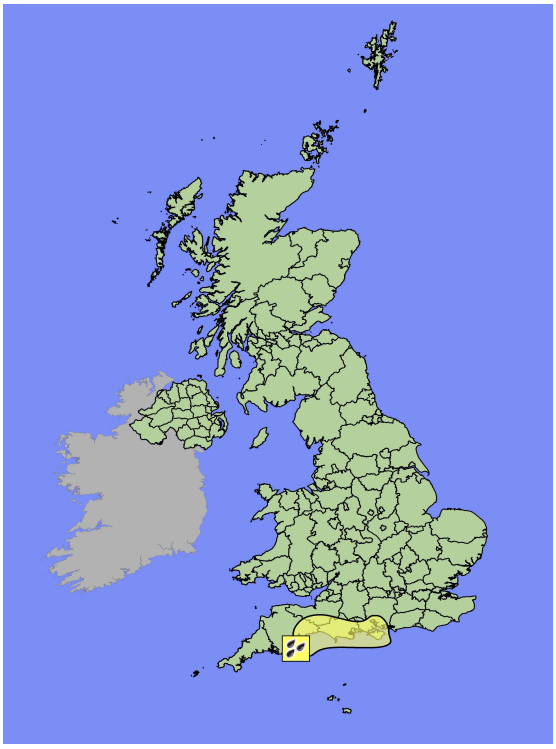
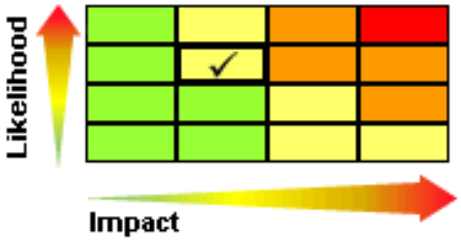
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Heavy showers are expected to develop through Friday and with lighter winds than on Thursday these have the potential to become slow moving and prolonged in places. Rainfall totals of 30 to 40 mm are possible very locally in a period of a few hours, though in the vast majority of places amounts are expected to be less than this.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 01:00 on Fri, 04th Nov 2011 until 17:00 on Fri, 04th Nov 2011

Slow moving, heavy and locally thundery showers are expected to develop during Friday. The public should be aware that as a result of the heavy rain there could be some surface water flooding, leading to local travel disruption.
